

AMY STCLAIR Director of Accounting

Amy StClair is able to find solutions or workarounds to almost any accounting challenge.

Amy joined Altieri in 2016 with over 20 years of experience in Controller, Office Manager, and Accounting Manager positions for various general contractors, as well as database design and software implementation for medical and dental surgical centers and hospitals.

Amy focuses on updating processes and procedures to increase overall efficiencies in Altieri's accounting department, is in the process of developing a Document Retention Protocol (DRP) for the firm, and is contributing to our stewardship of the environment with a significant increase in paperless transactions. Beyond her work for Altieri, Amy finds time to provide accounting consulting services to small restaurants, law practices, and rental properties.

Education

Bowling Green University, 1994
Bachelor of Science, Business Administration

Professional Affiliation

Institute of Management Accountants (IMA)